Re: Statement of Interest for Appointment to the Independent Redistricting Commission

I would be honored if given the opportunity to serve on the Independent Redistricting Commission. I have always had the deepest respect for the state of Arizona and the progress we have made over the past decades. I was born and raised in Phoenix and have also raised three children who all adult aged and have also made Arizona their home.

I am a person who possesses a strong work ethic, sense of fairness, objectivity, and compassion. If given the opportunity to serve the State of Arizona and participate on the Independent Redistricting Commission, my energies would be remain focus on fostering a positive, supportive culture for people of all walks of life.

During my career I have been fortunate to work the individuals like Honorable Art Hamilton, George Dean and Edmundo Hildago on community event programs. Currently, I am afforded the opportunity to travel to nine counties throughout the state which allows me to meet and work with all types of citizens in local communities. Being fair and honest and working in an impartial manner on projects that come before me, along with fostering positive supportive culture with different communities I interact with on monthly basis is true asset that I would bring to the commission.

Thank you in advance for considering my application for the Independent Redistricting Commission.

Respectfully,

Lanette Campbell

WORK EXPERIENCE

Statement of Interest

I bring a unique and necessary point of view to the commission. My youth, energy and experience will serve the commission and the citizens of Arizona well in meeting our constitutional objectives. I am a strong believer in the concept of giving back to the community. My entire professional career is built on that premise. Short of running for public office, and working as an educator, I can think of no better way to serve my community than by serving on the Independent Redistricting Commission.

One of my strongest attributes is the accumulation and assimilation of information. That is why I have been so affective in building relationships which is imperative for a teacher. Consensus building is also an important skill for a commissioner as together we work to do what is right for Arizona.

To Whom it May Concern:

Please accept this letter as my statement of interest to be considered for the Independent Redistricting Commission. I was born and raised in Tempe, Arizona, and my family has been active within the Latino community, ensuring the growing community has a voice in matters important to the state.

The Independent Redistricting Commission was created by Arizona voters to ensure that a process independent of political influence could be followed when determining new boundaries for Congressional and Legislative districts every 10 years. The IRC and the work they have already done should remain independent, and I feel I can be successful carrying out this mission.

Ensuring fair boundaries that provide an opportunity to anyone wishing to run for Congress or the Legislature is of the utmost importance, and I would be honored to serve is selected to fill the vacancy. Thank you for your consideration of my application. Please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Andrea M. Esquer

STATEMENT OF INTEREST
By Cid R. Kallen

I am interested in this position because I truly believe in the importance of the IRC's mission to redraw Arizona's congressional and legislative districts to more accurately reflect the results of the most recent census. I understand that much of the work of this committee has already taken place, namely in the drawing of the district lines, but believe that the crucial objective remains of carrying this work to fruition.

The current vacancy on the commission was created by José Herrera, a member of the Hispanic community born in San Luis, AZ. The Hispanic community is one of the largest communities of interest and now, more than ever, it is important that it maintain a voice in this important process. I believe I am uniquely suited to fill this position because of my personal and professional understanding of the needs and culture of the Hispanic/Latino community, as well as my demonstrated commitment to the service of this country and the democratic system it stands for.

I was born in Mexico and lived there until I was 16 years old. I have family in both the United States and Mexico, and chose to move to the U.S. in 1997 to join the Marine Corps. Following 5 years of service, I returned to Arizona to obtain my law degree. For the past several years, I have resided in and served a predominantly Hispanic community in my capacity as both a public defense attorney and a private practitioner in Yuma County.

With my background and experience, I can help the commission maintain a pulse on this key demographic group while remaining dedicated to the overarching public service goal of implementing the new districting lines.

As an attorney, I took an oath to honor and preserve the rule of law. As a United States Marine, I swore to defend this country and the rights it stands for. I believe it my civic duty to offer to serve in this capacity, and I would be honored to participate in this committee.

BIOGRAPHICAL STATEMENT

Jo Ann López Martínez grew up in Parker, AZ. She attended Arizona State University and earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology with a minor in Chicana/o Studies. She was inspired to learn more about the impact higher education can have on a person and society. She continued her education at Arizona State University and completed a Master of Education degree in the field of Higher Education.

Jo Ann has served various diverse groups of college and pre-college students at both Mesa Community College and Arizona State University. She looks forward to promoting higher education by making an impact on future first generation college students, their families, and their communities. Presently, she serves as Director for the Nina Mason Pulliam Legacy Scholars program.

Jo Ann lives with her husband, José, and with their two daughters two daughters, Graciela and Sofia, in Avondale.

STATEMENT OF INTEREST

I am interested in serving on the Independent Redistricting Commission because I believe that civic engagement, whether local or national, is vital for thriving communities. Adequate representation to a community is an important element that fosters civic engagement. Thus, a community that is engaged in civic matters takes greater pride in protecting and promoting itself. As a member of the Commission, I will work honestly and impartially to create districts that adequately represent its community while abiding by the listed goals for the Commission.

I have followed the work of the Commission from its inception in 2000 and have immense interest in its work. As a social scientist, I maintain a natural curiosity in understanding social statistics, including in-depth research and analysis. Understanding the population growth in the state of Arizona has an impact in so many sectors of the state. In education, for example, we have taken notice in how the projected population will change over the next decade and have focused our efforts to preparing the next group of future college students to be college ready. Similarly, it is important for the Commission to also recognize the changes that are occurring in the state and understand how they affect the redistricting outcomes. I look forward to problem solving the redistricting issues and collaborating with the fellow members in the Commission. Much of this work falls in line with what I currently conduct in my profession, including data analysis, reporting, and fostering internal and external relationships.

Additionally, my rural background provides a unique perspective that can be a valuable asset for this Commission. Over the years, I have reflected on the diverse issues between rural and urban communities in Arizona, including the limited access to services and resources that rural communities experience in comparison to urban communities. Many of these issues are related to the advocates rural communities have representing them locally and nationally. Therefore, it remains important to ensure rural communities maintain adequate representation at the state and congressional levels, a task I would take seriously if selected as a Commission member.

If granted the opportunity, I will work diligently as a Commission member to affirm district boundaries previously set by this Commission by taking into consideration the state's population growth. Each person reserves the right to be represented adequately and participate civically as they are valuable to their community, rural or urban.

Feel free to contact me for any questions or concerns at jo_ann_lopez@hotmail.com or 480-228-7547.

Sincerely,
Jo Ann L. Martinez

STATEMENT OF INTEREST
JIMMIE DEE SMITH

In 2010, I applied to be appointed to the Commission. I was recommended by the Commission on Appellate Court Appointments to the Legislature as one of the ten democrats for appointment to the Commission. Two others on the list were more qualified for the position and were appointed. It is my continued opinion that Rural Arizona should have a voice on the Commission.

I have lived in Rural Arizona almost all my life. I am a product of Arizona's Public Education System. I have been a small town attorney in Yuma, Arizona for 40 years. I am interested in Arizona's future. I have volunteered thousands of hours of my time to the State Bar of Arizona to improve the Arizona legal profession, which includes more than 15 years on the State Bar Board of Governors and holding every office of the State Bar of Arizona, including being President (2006-2007).

Again, I believe Rural Arizona should have a voice in major Arizona decisions and I believe I am honest and fair.

While I know that the Commission will likely have no or very little work to do in the future, I would still like to serve on the Independent Redistricting Commission.

Thank you.

Jimmie Dee Smith - Yuma, Arizona

Biographical statement

Joe Thomas is a high school government teacher who has spent fifteen years working in Arizona classrooms. He currently teaches Government at Skyline High School in Mesa and also serves as the Arizona Education Association Vice President.

Joe grew up in rural Oklahoma where he earned a bachelors degree in History from the University of Sciences and Arts of Oklahoma . He moved to Arizona in 1997 and began working for Mesa Public Schools. Joe later earned a masters degree in Adult Education and Distance Learning from the University of Phoenix.

Joe lives in Gilbert where he is married to Valerie Thomas, a teacher in the Higley school district. They have three children.

Statement of interest for Joe Thomas

As a government teacher I appreciate the importance of voting and representation. The citizens-based Arizona Independent Redistricting Commission is aimed at removing as much partisan politics as possible from the important redistricting effort and provide Arizona with a legal and appropriately-apportioned electorate. The AIRC is a model for the rest of the nation to see one way to put the responsibility of redistricting in the hands of the people. I would be honored to serve on the commission and take up this important task.

Attachment re: Question # 8

My father is deceased and my mother is retired. Until last week, my wife, Laurie, was a school teacher at Christ Church Episcopal School. In the fall, she will be working as the Office Administrator for Plattner Verderame, P.C. My son, Nicholas, just graduated from law school and will be taking the Bar exam in July. Thereafter, he will be working for the Polisinelli Law firm in Phoenix. My son, Ted, is a Financial Analyst with Boos, Allen, Hamilton, Inc., in Denver, Colorado. My daughter, Ann, is a licensed Pilates Therapist living in Playa del Rey, California.

STATEMENT OF INTEREST

I want to serve on the Independent Redistricting Commission because I believe it will require what may be the most important decisions that will impact the Arizona political landscape during a critical time in our State's history. I believe that voters need to feel that their votes will count. I believe that too many voters live in districts that are gerrymandered in such a lop-sided way, that they feel it is futile to exercise the fundamental right of a democracy, the right to vote. Due to these beliefs, I support competitive districts. I believe that this feeling of futility is strongest among the poor and minority communities who feel powerless, whether there is an election or not. For a democracy to work, the citizens—of all races, creeds, economic circumstances, even political parties—must vote and participate in the process. The decisions made by the IRC will impact what is likely to be the rest of my own political life in Arizona, so I want to make certain well reasoned choices are made.

In addition, I have had an interest in the process of drawing lines for electoral districts going back to my days in college. In 2000, when Arizona drew the districts that were used for the past decade, the State hired the Rose Institute of State and Local Government to use its computer database to come up with proposals. Dean Alan Heslop, from Claremont McKenna College, presided over the project at the time. I am quite familiar with Dean Heslop, as I attended that college, had him as a professor, and worked as a volunteer with the Rose Institute in order to learn the process. While the computers we used back then were primitive compared to those in use today, the concepts involving demographics, voter registration, voting history, etc. have remained substantially the same. So, my service on the commission, if appointed, would permit me to pursue an interest that began nearly 40 years ago.

List all political activities for at least the past ten years. Include dates of service and indicate all offices held in any organization. (Use attachment if necessary.)

I have been a contributor to some campaigns in the past fifteen years. I have attended a handful of meetings in a few campaigns the past fifteen years but have not been part of an inner circle nor have I had any official position with any campaign or political organization the past fifteen years. I have no records but I am confident that I have held no titled position in any campaign or political organization for more than twenty years. I have in earlier years served in many campaigns and held various minor party posts as well as being state President of the Young Democrats more than forty years ago. I was Bruce Babbitt's first Chief of Staff and had a lot of political involvement through the 1980's.

List all professional and occupational memberships for at least the past ten years. Include dates of service and indicate all offices held in any organization. Please include honors, awards and other forms of recognition. (Use attachment if necessary.)

State Bar of Arizona, American Bar Association

I have been an active member of the State Bar the past forty-seven years. I have no recent professional or business honors or awards the past ten years. I did publish an article in 2012 in Norton's Bankruptcy Journal. See attached article.

From 2002 through 2010 I was involved in international business and legal opportunities that involved international travel on separate trips to China, Italy, Serbia, United Kingdom, Germany, Poland, Romania, Israel, Morocco and Malaysia. Trips to China and Italy numbered more than ten each and there were multiple trips to India, Israel and Malaysia, too. This travel schedule and attendant jet lag precluded any significant involvement in community, civic or professional organizations in which I might otherwise have become involved the past ten or twelve years. Service on this Commission is consistent with my lifelong involvement that travel has precluded until recently.

STATEMENT OF INTEREST

I have a lifelong interest in politics and public affairs together with a long record of participation in Arizona civic, professional and governmental activities at the leadership level. My recent international business travel has precluded me from active participation in community, civic and political affairs as I might have otherwise liked. My health is good, I have the time and energy and I feel a responsibility to contribute to the community by using my education, training and experience in a useful way. The Independent Redistricting Commission seems to be a place where my contribution could be worthwhile

RESUME

RONALD E. WARNICKE

Ronald E. Warnicke practices law in Phoenix, Arizona, with Gordon Silver while serving as Vice-Chairman of Special Projects for The Miller Group/Miller Capital. In the past ten years, Mr. Warnicke has been the principal attorney for Nucarco, Visionary Vehicles, and REW Networks, LLC.

For more than forty years, Mr. Warnicke's practice has involved transactional and business litigation matters. He has represented a variety of businesses, including: banks, savings and loan associations, mortgage companies, an airline, a regional hospital and a title insurance company, as well as other businesses.

Mr. Warnicke has served on various governmental and political bodies: The Governor's Council on Health, The Governor's Blue Ribbon Commission on State Land, and The Phoenix Freeway Committee. In March of 1978, upon learning of the death of the incumbent Arizona governor the previous night, Bruce Babbitt (later Secretary of the Interior) made his first call to Ronald Warnicke. Mr. Warnicke took an immediate ten month leave of absence from his law practice to organize Governor Babbitt's staff and serve as his Chief of Staff through the next election.

In 1982, Mr. Warnicke and Malcolm Bricklin founded the parent company of Yugo America. Mr. Warnicke negotiated the first importation agreements in New York and in Turin, Italy. He later drafted the importation, distributorship, and dealership agreements leading to the importation and sale of the Pininfarina, Bertone and Yugo automobiles in the U.S. Mr. Warnicke sold his stock in the parent company in a leveraged buyout in 1988.

Judge Bilby appointed Mr. Warnicke the examiner in the American Continental bankruptcy proceeding in 1989. Mr. Warnicke became the first quasi-judicial official to return a finding of fraud involving Charles Keating. Mr. Warnicke's bankruptcy experience with public companies extends beyond American Continental Corporation. Mr. Warnicke has served as debtors' and creditors' counsel, as well as on official creditors' committees, and in a variety of successful Chapter 11 reorganizations, including Texscan and Circle K. He served as a SIPC receiver in the liquidation of a security's dealer, having been appointed at the recommendation of the SEC.

Mr. Warnicke was listed in the first edition of Best Lawyers in America (1986), and has continually maintained Martindale-Hubbell's highest attorney rating. He has represented both plaintiffs and defendants in a variety of lawsuits involving alleged state and federal securities law violations. He has also served as an arbitrator in NASD proceedings.

As Vice Chairman of The Miller Group/Miller Capital, Mr. Warnicke reviews potential financial projects. He also assists the Miller Group CEO in negotiating and structuring capital formation transactions, including merger-acquisitions, public company financing, and the private placement of both debt and equity. He has broad and varied experience with public entities, having served on the boards of several public companies, including States West Airlines (operating as US Air Express), Hospitality Capital Corporation, which became International Fibercom, and Creative Vistas, now an operating and trading company.

Mr. Warnicke has served as the principal attorney for Visionary Vehicles since its formation. He participated in negotiating and documenting automobile importation agreements intended to bring about the importation of the Chery automobile from China into the United States. He also served as principal attorney and primary investor in REW Networks, LLC a start-up technology company in the wireless communication business.

Over the years, Mr. Warnicke has been involved in many business, professional and community leadership positions. He served as President of the Young Lawyers Section of the Arizona State Bar Association, as well as one of the four Directors of the American Bar Association's largest section. As well, Mr. Warnicke was President of the Arizona World Trade Association, the Encanto Citizens Association, the Arizona Young Democrats, MatchPoint Tennis Club, Arizona World Trade Association and on the Boards of other civic groups including the Phoenix Downtown YMCA and Friends of Mexican Art. He received an award from the United States Chess Federation for outstanding contributions to scholastic chess for coaching and otherwise supporting scholastic chess over a ten year period.

Mr. Warnicke graduated from Maine Township High School where he was a National Merit scholar and was selected to the first team All-State baseball team as the catcher on Maine's Illinois State Championship Baseball team. He graduated with honors from Wabash College, receiving the Alumni Award as Scholar Athlete of the Year and placing First on Comprehensive Exams his senior year in History and Economics. He graduated from Harvard Law School where he was an oralist for the semi-finalist team in the Ames Moot Court completion. He is a member of the State Bar of Arizona, and is admitted to practice in federal courts. He is married and has two adult children.

The following is the current Wikipedia article on my wife who still teaches full time as a Professor of History at ASU. It does not include anything about her most recent and important book published last year to very favorable reviews. .

Retha Marvine Warnicke (born 1939) is an American historian and Professor of History at Arizona State University. Warnicke graduated with a B.A. from Indiana University, magna cum laude, in 1961. She then moved on to Harvard University, where she earned her M.A. and Ph.D. in 1963 and 1969, respectively. During her junior year, she joined Phi Beta Kappa and in her senior year, she was granted the Listenfelt Scholarship, for outstanding Undergraduate History Major, following in 1961 with the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.^[1]

From 1965 to 1966, Professor Warnicke was an instructor at Phoenix College. She went on to teach at Arizona State University (ASU) as a Lecturer from 1966 to 1967. She then left to pursue her Ph.D. before returning to ASU to continue as a Lecturer from 1969 to 1973. Warnicke rose through the ranks to Assistant Professor, then Associate Professor and finally Professor in 1973, 1976 and 1984, respectively. She was the Director of Graduate Studies at the History Department from 1987–1992, and she was Chair of the History Department from 1992-1998.^[2]

Professor Warnicke was the first woman hired in the History Department of ASU, and taught the first Women's History course ever offered there. Through her advocacy, lobbying efforts and participation in numerous search committees, the History Department began to add women and minority men to the department – and as a result, the History Department is nearly half female and has a large minority presence. In addition to her efforts in the History Department, Professor Warnicke has also devoted much of her time to affirmative action and faculty rights.^[3]

Professor Warnicke specializes on politics and protocol at the Tudor Court, Gender Issues in the Early Modern Period (1400 – c. 1700) and Jacobean Funerary Rites for Women. She authored numerous articles, including Inventing the Wicked Women of Tudor England: Alice More, Anne Boleyn and Anne Stanhope and Sexual Heresy at the Court of Henry VIII. She is also the author of The Marrying of Anne of Cleves: Royal Protocol in Tudor England, which was published in 2000 by Cambridge. Her most recent book, Mary, Queen of Scots, which was published by Routledge in 2006, has received positive scholarly reviews.

She is best known for her controversial theories over the life of Henry VIII's second wife, Anne Boleyn. These theories were outlined in various articles in the mid-1980s; Anne Boleyn's Childhood and Adolescence and Sexual Heresy at the Court of Henry VIII. The theories were built on and elaborated in her 1989 book The Rise and Fall of Anne Boleyn: Family politics at the court of Henry VIII.

Warnicke's theories on Anne Boleyn [edit]

- She argued against the general theory that Anne Boleyn was born around 1501. Instead, she believes that Anne was born much later—in the summer of 1507.
- The popular rumours that Anne had several small deformities—like an extra fingernail or moles—are incorrect, since rumours of deformities only began after Anne's death and no one who met her ever commented on them;—"... the two [descriptions] cannot logically be reconciled to each other. Had there been even a hint of a deformity in Anne's appearance, the Venetian, as well as the Imperial ambassadors... would have eagerly revealed this intriguing fact to their respective governments."
- "For many historians Anne remains the lady with the extra fingernail who was too flirtatious, even if in a harmless courtly way, for her own safety and well being. The result of this interpretation is that the responsibility for her tragic death resides with her, the victim, rather than with the king and his ministers, the ones who orchestrated her execution."
- Most importantly, she argues that Anne miscarried a deformed fetus in January 1536 which fueled 16th-century fears of witchcraft and sexual deviance and led to her execution—"In an attempt to understand her by the terms of her society, information from a wide range of sources will be used to support the argument that she miscarried a defective fetus in 1536. It was because Henry VIII viewed this mishap as an evil omen, both for his lineage and his kingdom, that he had her accused of engaging in illicit sexual acts with five men and fostered rumors that she had afflicted him with impotence and had conspired to poison both his daughter Mary and his illegitimate son, Henry, duke of Richmond."

Warnicke's theories were harshly criticised by some other historians—particularly E.W. Ives and G.W. Bernard. She defended her arguments in a 1993 article The Fall of Anne Boleyn Revisited, although she did not insist on some points as rigorously as before. She suggested that Ives's theory on Anne's fall (that it was caused by foreign policy and palace politics) was based on an over-reliance on Spanish sources and that his theory on her youth was ridiculous. Warnicke was even harsher with G.W. Bernard's suggestion that Anne might have been guilty of adultery in 1536. She called it a "dubious assertion" with no reliable documentary proof. She concluded:

As long as the lurid charges against the Queen exist only in unsubstantiated indictments and contradictory diplomatic writings, historians ought to remain sceptical about factional theories of her adulterous guilt or of factional politics. At the least, they owe it to the past not to further obscure the facts.

In her "author's note" to bestseller The Other Boleyn Girl, Philippa Gregory said her novel's conclusion was based upon Warnicke's findings in The Rise and Fall of Anne Boleyn, but Warnicke has publicly distanced herself^[citation needed] from the novel and its presentation of the Boleyns

As an officer and director of more than two dozen companies the past forty years I have been named in several lawsuits as one of many defendants. Most contain six to ten counts and usually some sort of fraud claim has been thrown in, although I have never been personally accused of the general fraud alleged. No such lawsuit has ever gone beyond preliminary stages and all were settled for nominal amounts less than estimated defense costs. The most recent case was settled many years ago and the seven year mandatory record keeping time for those who might have records has passed and I have no records still extant for any of these old cases.

I recall the most recent case, where I was a director of a small public company that merged with an operating company intending to raise funds and grow the business of the operating company. Before the first meeting of the board after the merger I saw financial information that caused me to cease all forward going activities and caused a bankruptcy to be quickly filed. I was named with a dozen others, apparently because I was a director and thought willing to pay nuisance value to settle. I was named even though the fraud was perpetrated by the other company beginning before the merger and I had not been on the board long enough to have attended even one meeting and pulled the plug immediately. The case was settled as to them by other defendants who had paid my defense costs to that time as part of a joint defense. They paid a nuisance value based on part of the anticipated defense costs to go forward.

I refused to participate in the settlement without being required to pay a single penny because I intended to sue for abuse of process but the plaintiffs dismissed the case against me before I had fully employed counsel. I decided not to proceed and let the case die following my dismissal.

In 1978 I personally guaranteed a Small Business Administration disaster assistance loan following the flooding of a small trailer park owned by a corporation in which I was a shareholder, but not an officer or director. The President of the company misappropriated the loan proceeds to pay his personal debts instead of using them for the purposes of replacing the damaged water purification system. The SBA several times failed to obtain proof of payment and lien waivers showing the proper use of funds for monies already disbursed before disbursing additional funds, thus enabling the continuing misappropriation. In the ensuing lawsuit on the guaranty the Judge ruled that the SBA was not required to follow the contract terms as would a bank or private lender and entered judgment against me on the guaranty. I ultimately paid the SBA and obtained a full satisfaction of the Judgment decades ago. I have no records remaining.

Josh Zaragoza Biography

Josh Zaragoza is a second generation Phoenician. He is the proud son of two hard working blue-collar Americans, and the first from his family to graduate college, let alone obtain a graduate education. He graduated Magna Cum Laude with a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from Arizona State University. He earned his Master of Arts in International Security with Distinction from University of London's King's College.

In 2008, Josh served as a Field Organizer for the Obama for America campaign. As a Field Organizer in the West Valley, he worked diligently to ensure local candidates were forging strong relationships with political allies so they could collectively reach their objectives. Furthermore, he engaged with community leaders, institutions and organizations to mobilize young voters by tirelessly recruiting and organizing volunteers.

Prior to this, Josh spent 4 years in business development at Equifirst Corporation as an Account Executive, cultivating lucrative relationships for Equifirst and their clients. For his exceptional client relations and sales production, he was awarded Account Executive of the month three times for the Southwest Region. He was also successful in a public affairs role with Equifirst's community outreach team by developing and maintaining relationships with organizations such as Junior Achievement, Susan G. Komen Foundation, and Habitat for Humanity.

From 2009 to 2011, Josh spent his time at policy centers and think tanks examining an array of critical issues impacting citizens at the international, national and local level. His policy work has ranged from economic and education policy to border security and nuclear weapons programs. As a result of his strong analytical skills, Josh's assessments have been presented to both ASU's Center for Indian Education and the International Atomic Energy Agency's Department of Safeguards.

In December of 2011, Josh joined the team of Mario E Diaz & Associates, a government and public relations firm in Phoenix. Statement of Purpose

In my invaluable time working with the local community, from registering voters to teaching children everyday life skills, I have learned there is nothing more important than building consensus. Additionally, I would utilize my advanced critical thinking and effective communication skills to shape a common sense approach at the commission.

Equally as important, I see the enormous value and impact the redistricting commission has on the lives of Arizonans. As commissioner, I would not take this lightly and would drive consensus for the betterment of our State.
